

2016 IEEE COMSOC STUDENT COMPETITION

"Communications Technology Changing the World"

The competition Communication Technology Changing the World, by the IEEE Communications Society – Member Relations, recognizes students or teams of students who demonstrate the capacity to improve the lives of people, through the application of communication technology and the development of projects that meet the human needs of people.

Eligibility & Role of Students, Mentors/Advisors

To qualify for the competition, a participant must be a Student Member or Graduate Student Member of IEEE Communications Society, or form a team with either Student Members or non-student-members that is led by a Student Member. Team members do not need to be from the same country or region.

In this competition, students play the predominant roles in developing the project and in the problem solving, while higher grade senior roles, if included on a team, are considered "mentors" or "advisors." Non-student members among authors must be listed as "Advisor".
